PRINCIPAL'S NEWS

Why Can't I Skip My 20 Minutes of Reading Tonight?

By the end of 6th grade Student "A" will have read the equivalent of 60 whole school days. Student "B" will have read only 12 school days. Which student would you expect to have a better vocabulary? Which student would you expect to be more successful in school...and in life?

(Nagv & Herman. 1987)

Quote of the Week

"The more you read
the more things you know.
The more that you learn the more places you'll go."

Curriculum

Developing Children's Independence.

Being independent is an important part of any child's development. At school we try to develop this in a variety of ways, such as encouraging students to:

- Pack and unpack their own school bag
- Hand in notices/excursion forms and money for themselves
- Remember to present their Take Home Bag/book/diary to teachers to be signed/changed
- Enter and leave learning spaces on their own
- Carry own belongings/school bag
- Complete roles of responsibility at school.

To assist us, we ask that NO parents enter any learning space after 8.45am each morning. This will ensure that your child is responsible for getting themselves ready for the day. It also ensures that teachers are free to set up for the day, greet the students and assist with any issues, so that lessons can commence promptly at 9.00am. If you need to speak to your child's home group teacher, please arrange to do this prior to 8.45am, or after 3.15 pm, and not during Teaching and Learning time.

JUNIOR NEWS

For the last 2 weeks, JLS and JCM have been investigating water. We have brainstormed the many different uses of water and why water is so important. As part of our investigation we conducted a water cycle experiment. The students were able to be scientists and make predictions about what they thought might happen when the sun warmed the water in the glass bowl.

Some interesting words we have learned so far during our water unit are:

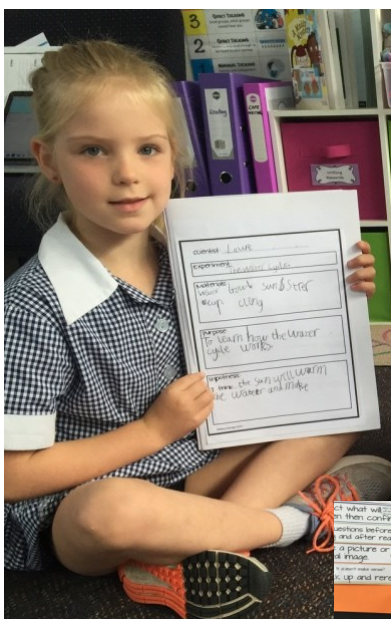

Condensation

Precipitation

Transparent

Refreshing

Dehydrated

Easing children's anxiety

By Michael Grose

Anxiety is a normal part of life and can be managed, but it takes time. It's also contagious so it's the job of parents to stay calm, think clearly and role model confidence when kids get anxious so that children can learn how to cope with anxiety.

For those with no personal experience of anxiety it can be hard to understand how debilitating it can be. "Come on, get on with it," seems so obvious. Of course, this response is nowhere near adequate.

Most kids experience some anxious moments or have fearful thoughts and feelings from time to time about certain events. These thoughts and feelings prompt them to proceed with caution.

But anxiety and fear can be paralysing. Some kids simply can't stop their 'bad thoughts and feelings'. They can't silence the voice of fear that whispers to them continually.

Calm is created through your words, voice and facial expression. When children become anxious, help them recognise what's happening. Some kids get angry, some become upset and others withdraw. Work out the pattern for your child and help them recognise when they are anxious.

Accept your child's anxious feelings. Your child needs to trust that you are with them, and then they will be more willing to let you help them cope. It's hard sometimes to differentiate between what may be a bad case of negative thinking and true anxiety.

Challenge the validity of your child's fears and anxiety, using logic and rational thinking. Don't allow kids to wallow in self-pity. Move their thoughts towards the future rather than allow them to mope around.

Encourage your child to overcome their anxiety through action.

Anxiety is normal, and part of everyday life. However, it can be debilitating unless it's managed. Anxiety management takes time for kids to learn, but it's one of those valuable life skills that parents can teach their kids.
