In the Senior Learning Community this semester we have been exploring our own rights and responsibilities, and those of the local, state and federal government. Our investigation topic has led to a greater understanding of both the range of services different levels of government provide and the rules that govern the society we live in. We have used a variety of ways to explore this topic and have demonstrated our understanding in many forms including posters, research questions, mock elections and oral presentations. We have used a variety of ICT tools to explore our investigations unit including computers and laptops which helped us complete research and create election posters promoting ourselves as classroom representatives.

Enari: “Investigations helps me understand the world I live in.”

Brodie T: “I’m finding it inspiring and I love that I’m learning so much”.

Angela: “I found out about so much about local, state and federal government that I never knew”.
